Preface

This is one of a series of volumes presenting final results of the 1954 Census of Business for Retail, Wholesale, and Selected Service Trades. Statistics for Retail Trade are contained in two volumes, Volume II and this volume. The 1954 Census, which was conducted by mail canvass of business establishments and by use of Internal Revenue Service records (See "Method of Enumeration" in Introduction), was authorized by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 131. Previous business censuses covered the years 1929, 1933, 1935, 1939, and 1948.

Important to the conduct of the 1954 Census of Business was the cooperation of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance and the Internal Revenue Service in permitting use of certain records thus making possible a material reduction in the cost of enumerating the Census. The Bureau also acknowledges the assistance of many private and public organizations in the planning phase of the census and the excellent cooperation of some 1,750,000 business establishments in completing the required Census forms.

The advice of trade associations, individual businessmen, research and marketing organizations, and government agencies was invaluable in determining the feasibility of collecting various types of data and the methods for minimizing the burden of reporting, as well as in determining the types of information which would be of greatest value. Especially helpful was the Advisory Council on Federal Reports which, through special panels of business experts, advised and assisted in the development of inquiries. Because of budgetary and other limitations, it was not possible to collect all of the data recommended by these groups. Timely publicity given to the Business Census by chambers of commerce, business organizations, trade papers, local newspapers, and television and radio stations aided greatly in informing businessmen of the nature and objectives of the census and facilitated the collection of census reports.

Primary responsibility for the 1954 Census of Business program was centered in the Business Division of the Census Bureau, under the direction of Harvey Kailin, Chief of the Division. Henry Wulff, Chief of the Retail Trade Branch, supervised the retail trade segment of the Business Census. He was assisted by Gerda S. Mones, Assistant Chief of the Retail Trade Branch, and Philip M. Chenoweth and Caesar G. Hill who were chiefly responsible for handling technical problems.

Processing of the 1954 Census of Business reports was performed by the Economic Operations Division, under the supervision of M. D. Bingham, Division Chief and Irving Weiss, Assistant Chief. Donald K. Weasmer, then Chief of the Retail and Service Census Branch, was responsible for processing Retail Trade reports and tabulations. He was assisted by Jack A. Scharff and John S. Lannan.

In the Field Division, Jack B. Robertson, then Chief of the Division; Ivan G. Munro, Assistant Chief; and Arthur L. Cook, then Chief of the Economic Census Branch, directed the field work for the Census of Business.

Julius Shiskin, Chief Economic Statistician in the Office of the Assistant Director for Statistical Standards, as well as Harold T. Goldstein and Irving Rottenberg of that office, contributed to the coordination of the Business Census with the Censuses of Manufactures and Mineral Industries and to several phases of the planning and processing of the Censuses.

Important functions were also performed by the Machine Tabulation Division under C. F. Van Aken, Chief. Mrs. Catherine M. Neafsey, Chief of the Economics Section, was responsible for machine tabulation techniques and procedures used in Retail Trade tabulations.

Geography Division personnel participating in various phases of Business Census work were Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief; Robert C. Klove, Assistant Chief; William T. Fay, Chief, Survey Planning Branch; and Toshi Toki.

Donald K. Heiser, Chief of the Electronics Systems Branch, assisted by Rudolph M. Micoly, Chief of Operations for the Branch, was responsible for planning and use of electronic computer and accompanying equipment. Robert H. Brooks, Chief, Graphics Branch, was responsible for preparing Census of Business publications for reproduction. Mrs. Elma Beynon of the Statistical Reports Division reviewed all text material and table forms, and assisted on publications problems.

INTRODUCTION

The 1954 Census of Business, along with the 1954 Censuses of Manufactures and Mineral Industries, was authorized by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 131 (see Appendix A). These 1954 Censuses covered businesses operated in continental United States, Alaska, and Hawaii. Separate Censuses of Business and Manufactures for 1954 were also conducted in Puerto Rico jointly with the Commonwealth Government.

The 1954 Census of Business covered Retail Trade, Wholesale Trade, and Selected Service Trades. This volume provides findings for that portion of the 1954 Census of Business which relates to Retail Trade.

KINDS OF BUSINESS COVERED

This report covers all establishments included in Retail Trade, defined in accordance with the principles of the Standard Industrial Classification System, as published in Volume II, Nonmanufacturing Industries (1949 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, issued under the auspices of the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President), with the exception of milk dealers which, in conformity with a subsequent action of the Bureau of the Budget, have been classified in the manufacturing industries. (See Appendix B, Food Stores.)

Retail Trade, as defined in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual, and as covered in the 1954 Census of Business, includes establishments primarily engaged in selling merchandise directly to personal, household, and farm users. Excluded from Retail Trade are places of business operated by membership clubs and open only to their own members or personnel, such as restaurants and bars operated by country clubs, school cafeterias, cafeterias operated by industrial plants for their employees, establishments operated by agencies of the Federal Government on military posts, and hospitals. For a comparison of 1954 Census retail classifications with the Standard Industrial Classification, see Appendix C.

METHOD OF ENUMERATION

For purposes of coverage in the 1954 Census of Business, retail establishments were divided into two categories—those with any paid employment during 1954, i. e., the "employer" universe; and those with no paid employment during 1954, i.e., the "nonemployer" universe. The method of obtaining Census information for these two groups was as follows:

Enumeration of "Employers."—Information for establishments having paid employees and engaged in retail trade was obtained by means of a mail canvass. Report forms (See Appendix I) were mailed to all business firms included in the active records of the Internal Revenue Service as subject to payment of Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) taxes (i.e., employers of one or more persons) and which were classified in the records of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance (BOASI) as wholly or partially engaged in retail, wholesale, manufacturing, mineral industries, and in major groups 70, 72, 73, 75, 76, 78, and 79 of the service portion of the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. In addition, report forms were mailed to all establishments which BOASI had not classified by kind of business prior to the mailing of the report forms. Each establishment was mailed a report form appropriate to its BOASI classification (for those cases for which BOASI classification had not yet been established, a general purpose form was used) but its 1954 Census classification was determined by replies to questions on the Census report form.

Enumeration of "Nonemployers."—This group was defined to include retail businesses other than those represented in the active FICA records of the Internal Revenue Service. Information for this group of establishments was furnished by the Internal Revenue Service and was derived from the 1954 tax returns. Information was compiled from only one-half of these cases and census results for this group were established by multiplying such findings by two. The "nonemployer" segment of retail trade, although made up of a large number of establishments, accounted for less than 10 percent of the total retail trade volume.

COMPARISON OF 1948 AND 1954 CENSUSES

The 1948 and 1954 Business Censuses differed in several respects, which affect to some degree the comparability of data (See also Appendix D). In the case of some of these differences (items 1, 2, and 3, below) it has been feasible to revise the 1948 data either to put them on a comparable basis with the data for 1954 or at least to minimize noncomparability. The more important differences are as follows:

(1) The adoption of a "nonstore" retail category (see Appendix B, KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATION) importantly differentiated the 1954 Census from previous censuses and resulted in some differences in the figures by kind of business. In the publications issued in connection with the 1948 and previous Business Censuses, the "nonstore" retailers were not separately classified, as in 1954, but were included with "stores" in each kind of business. However, the 1948 Census figures shown in this and other 1954 Census of Business publications have been revised to show the "nonstore" retailers on the same basis as they are shown in the 1954 tables.

(2) The 1954 Business Census excludes those establishments with no paid employment in 1954 which had a sales volume of less than $2,500 in that year. Previously published results of the 1948 Census excluded establishments which operated the entire year but which had a sales volume of under $500. However, in this volume the 1948 figures have been revised to the same dollar cutoff as used in the 1954 Census. This change was made to help achieve greater comparability between the two censuses, although it should be recognized that changes in price level which have occurred between 1948 and 1954 have the effect of complicating comparisons between the two censuses. Use of the same dollar volume cutoff does not take into consideration such changes in price level. However, this situation does not importantly affect a comparison between the two censuses with respect to the total dollar volume of sales, as establishments in this range constitute an insignificant fraction of the retail sales volume.

(3) The definition of Retail Trade in the 1954 Business Census differs from that of the 1948 and previous censuses by the exclusion of "milk dealers" (see Appendix B, KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATION). The 1948 data shown in this volume have been revised to the 1954 basis and will differ in this respect from the results in previously issued 1948 Census of Business publications.

(4) The adoption of the mail canvass method in the 1954 Business Census, described under METHOD OF ENUMERATION, above, made it feasible to extend the coverage of the census to "nonrecognizable" establishments. In the 1948 and previous Business Censuses, coverage was limited to places which were "recognizable" as business establishments to enumerators who systematically canvassed all city blocks, roads, highways, etc. The use of the mailing lists and records, referred to above, for the 1954 Business Census made this limitation unnecessary and resulted in the addition to the census coverage of "nonrecognizable" businesses, e. g., businesses operated from homes, businesses operated on an itinerant basis, etc. Most of the "nonrecognizable" cases in the 1954 Census are thus classified in the "nonstore" retailer category (see Appendix B, KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATION). The 1948 figures carried in this volume have been revised to show figures for the "nonstore" retailers separate from the "store" type retailers. The effect of the inclusion of the "nonrecognizable" cases is substantially confined to the "nonstore" group and to "total" retail trade. It is believed that the inclusion of "nonrecognizable" establishments has had a greater effect on the count of establishments than on the volume of retail sales.

(5) The change in method of enumeration also resulted in the inclusion in the 1954 Business Census of a number of establishments which were in business a part of 1954 but not at the end of 1954. In the 1948 and previous Business Censuses, the coverage of establishments (except for those of large multiunit organizations for which special canvass procedures were used) was substantially limited to places which, at the end of the year, were still in business. In the 1954 Census, however, the inclusion of establishments not in business at the end of the year was possible to the extent that such establishments were included in the active files of the Internal Revenue Service used for mailing-list purposes or to the extent that they were identified in the records used for the "nonemployer" universe. In both 1954 and previous Business Censuses, the count of establishments is limited to those in business at the end of the year. Other items of data, however, include figures for part-year establishments not in business at the close of the year. The extent to which data for such establishments have been included in the 1954 figures will be noted in later publications.

(6) Comparability of 1948 and 1954 Business Census results also is affected by differences in the items of information collected for kind-of-business classification purposes and in the classification techniques. A description of these differences is provided in Appendix B, KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATION.

A special problem in comparability of data from census to census exists because of the use of the establishment as the unit for kind-of-business classification. Although an establishment may change its kind-of-business characteristics gradually, a change in kind-of-business classification is made for the establishment as a whole at a specific point in time. For example, with the addition of appropriate lines of merchandise, an apparel store at some point becomes a department store, or a men's shoe store becomes a family shoe store. When a change in classification is made, the new figures, as compared with figures on the old classification basis, will show an increase in the new kind of business by the total amount of the establishment's sales and a corresponding decrease in the previous kind of business in which the establishment was classified. Often there are offsetting changes in classification, so that changes between censuses in the amounts shown for various kinds of business are independent of changes in individual establishment classification. However, particularly when the volume of business is growing rapidly and new lines of merchandise are being added, the changes may not be mutually offsetting.

(7) A factor which in some cases may importantly affect kind-of-business comparisons was the change made from the 1948 Census practice of consolidating leased departments with the stores in which they were located. In a census conducted by field enumeration methods, it was feasible to identify the reports to be thus consolidated; in the 1954 Business Census, however, the elimination of the field canvass made such consolidation difficult to accomplish. For this reason, in the 1954 Census, each leased department was treated as a separate establishment and was classified in accordance with the kind of business it conducted. For example, in the 1954 tabulations a leased department selling apparel would be classified as an apparel store even though it was located in a department store or in a store classified in some kind of business other than apparel. It also should be noted that in the 1954 classifications, the procedure which separated the leased department from the main store could affect the kind-of-business code assigned to the main store because that code did not take into account the lines of merchandise carried by the leased department. The 1948 figures contained in the 1954 Census of Business publications have not been adjusted to the 1954 basis for leased departments. In addition to the material included in Appendix B, KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATION, reference should be made to the leased department tabulations, in Chapter 6 of this volume, which provide data for leased departments operating within main stores which had some payroll during 1954. In comparing leased department data for the years 1948 and 1954 it should be noted that the 1948 data included all retail leased departments in retail establishments whether or not the main store had some payroll during the census year.

(8) Some differences between the 1948 and 1954 Censuses exist with respect to the treatment of the administrative offices, warehouses, and other units which service and are auxiliary to the establishments within the scope of the Census. In the 1948 Census all auxiliaries having any warehousing functions were classified as "warehouses" whereas in the 1954 Census those having any administrative function were classified as "administrative offices." (In Table 6C, Administrative Offices, Warehouses and other Auxiliaries Reporting Warehouse Space, comparability between 1948 and 1954 Census findings has been maximized by including in the 1954 figures data on all units with any warehousing functions.) Also it was possible in the 1954 Census to a greater degree than in the 1948 Census to identify and classify individually as separate auxiliary units rather than combine into one unit operations which encompassed several activities (e.g., warehousing, central administration, etc.). One additional difference resulted from shifts between the Census of Business and the Census of Manufactures in the case of some auxiliary units. In the 1954 Census it was possible to evaluate the appropriateness of the classification of the auxiliary units as both Censuses of Business and Manufactures were conducted covering that year; in 1948 only the Business Census was conducted.

(9) One other important difference in the two censuses is in the treatment of sales and excise taxes levied directly on the consumer. In the 1948 Census of Business such taxes were not included in the total sales and receipts of retail establishments, whereas they were included in the 1954 Census. The effect of this change varies from State to State depending on whether there was a State sales tax law and on to what items the tax law applied. In general the tax is about two or three percent on the items covered. The Federal excise taxes on retail sales, while a higher percentage, were limited to selected items, and generally did not constitute a large fraction of total retail sales.

In addition to the factors detailed above, certain others could have affected the comparability of the 1948 and 1954 Censuses. In the 1954 Census, the use of the business schedule of the income tax form to account for "nonemployer" businesses probably has occasioned some undercoverage of such small businesses. Although there would have been no significant effect on total dollar volume of sales reported in the Census, because of the small size of establishments involved, a perceptible effect on establishment counts is not precluded. Possibly this factor accounts for some of the differences between 1948 and 1954 establishment counts, particularly in certain areas, mainly rural ones, and in certain kinds of business (e.g., gasoline filling stations). On the other hand, it is possible that in the 1954 Census some establishments which should have been classified as "nonstores" (and therefore would not have been covered in the 1948 Census—see Item 4 above) were classified as "stores" because of the limitations of the kind-of-business description appearing on the tax report. It has not been feasible to establish the degree to which these factors affected the 1954 Census establishment statistics count or what their effect has been on either area or kind-of-business establishment count comparisons with 1948. As noted above, the effect on total dollar volume comparisons would be very small.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF DATA

In accordance with Census law, any data which would disclose the operations of an individual establishment or business organization are not published. The number of establishments in a kind of business is not considered a disclosure by Census rules, so that this item is shown in instances where other items of information for the same establishments are suppressed.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

GENERAL SUMMARY

Sales.—The volume of retail trade for 1954 as reported in the Business Census reached a new high of almost $170 billion, an increase of over 250 percent from the $47.8 billion reported in the Census for the year 1929. The increase in physical volume of sales from 1929, as approximated by deflating 1954 sales by the change in retail price level, using the Department of Commerce index of retail prices, was 106 percent. In approximately the same period—1930 to 1954—population increased 31 percent from 122,775,000 to an estimated 161,191,000. On a per capita basis, unadjusted for price level, sales in retail establishments were about $389 in 1929 compared with $1,054 in 1954.

During the period from 1929 to 1954 there was also an increase in the percentage of "personal income" expended in making purchases from retail establishments. In 1929, the volume of sales equaled 55.7 percent of personal income and by 1954 this percentage had risen to 59.1 percent.

The 1954 retail trade total of $170 billion compares with $128.8 billion for 1948, an increase of 32 percent. Adjusted for price changes, the increase was 22 percent. In the same period the population increased about 10 percent. Per capita sales were $1,054 in 1954 as compared with $882 in 1948, an increase of 20 percent. Despite these increases, in 1954 total retail sales were a slightly smaller percentage of "personal income" than they had been in 1948.

Table A presents these and other significant facts for the major census years:

[1]Data for 1929 and 1939 are based on the nearest decennial census, 1930 and 1940 respectively. Data for 1948 and 1954 are Bureau of Census estimates as of July 1 of each year.

Employment and Payroll.—One of the most important factors in measuring the importance of any industry is the number of persons for which it provides employment and the amount it pays these employees for their services. In this Census, data on employment and payroll were collected for the workweek which ended nearest November 15. During the workweek, retail trade establishments employed a total of 7,124,331 employees, of which 5,778,351, or 81.1 percent, were full-workweek employees (those who worked at least the number of hours typically worked in a week by employees of the reporting establishment) and the remaining 1,345,980 were part-workweek employees. Full-workweek employees received an average of $56.61 for their services during this period. Restaurant and cafeterias, with over 800,000 full-workweek employees, had more such employees than any other individual kind of business identified in the Census; other kinds of business with over one-half million full-workweek employees include grocery stores (573,295) and department stores (562,630). In average pay per full-workweek employee, floor covering stores led with $79.52, followed by plumbing and electrical supply stores with $77.00. News dealers and newsstands reported the lowest average with $36.54. In analyzing these average payments it should be noted that they may not be representative of averages during other workweeks or of the average of all workweeks in the year. This is especially important because the workweek which ended nearest November 15 is a period in which many kinds of businesses are approaching their peak for the year. Table B presents employment, payroll, and average wage payments data for the workweek which ended nearest November 15; and average annual payroll for each major group of retail establishments and for the more important kinds of business.

Payroll-to-Sales Ratios.—Although the major portion of each dollar received by retail establishments as a result of sales is expended in the purchase of the commodities offered for sale, the payroll is also an important factor. In 1954, 11 1/2 cents of every dollar taken in by retailers was paid out to employees. The in-plant food contractors, whose annual payroll of $62,913,000 accounted for 32.3 cents of every sales dollar, had the highest payroll-to-sales ratio of any individual kind of business while the household trailer dealers, with a payroll-to-sales ratios of 5.3 percent, had the lowest. Table C presents the payroll-to-sales ratios of the major groups of retail establishments and of the more important kinds of business. The ratios in this tabulation are based on the total sales and annual payroll of those establishments which had one or more employees at some time during 1954.

TRENDS BY KIND OF BUSINESS

Between 1948 and 1954 important shifts occurred in the distribution of retail sales among various kinds of business probably resulting from such factors as the adding of new product lines, the increased consumer acceptability of existing lines, new merchandising methods, etc. A few illustrations of the shifts that have occurred in the kind of business distribution of retail sales are the following.

Food Stores.—As has been true in every Census of Retail Trade, food stores in 1954 continued to be the largest single group of retailers. In 1954, food stores accounted for 23.4 percent of the sales of all retail establishments, compared with 22.7 percent of the total in 1948. Among the food stores, grocery stores have been the most important single kind of business in every Census of Business, and have assumed a more commanding position in 1954 than ever before. In 1954, grocery stores registered 87 percent of the total sales of all food stores as compared with 85 percent in 1948.

The changing character of grocery stores is reflected in the elimination, in the 1954 Census, of the distinction between grocery stores which handle meat and those which do not. In 1929, almost half (47 percent) of the grocery store sales were made in stores which did not handle meat. By 1948, only 16 percent of sales were made in stores which did not handle meat, while in 1954 the retention of this distinction was considered unnecessary in view of the widespread distribution of frozen meat items among food stores. The growth of nonfood items, though not directly measured by the Census, undoubtedly was a factor in the relative growth of grocery store volume.

Gasoline Service Stations.—The increasing importance of automobiles as a means of transportation is reflected in the growing importance of these establishments in the total retail picture. In 1954, 6.3 percent of the sales of all retail establishments were made by gasoline service stations. In 1948 they accounted for 5.0 percent, in 1929 only 3.7 percent of the total.

Automotive Group.—This group, heavily dominated by car dealers, continued as second in importance in the retail major groups, increasing from 14.5 percent of retail sales in 1929 and 15.6 percent in 1948 to 17.6 percent in 1954. A minor part of this increase was accounted for by the inclusion in the Retail Census of all repair shops of franchised passenger car dealers. Previously only those shops operated at the same location as a passenger car salesroom were included in retail trade. By and large, however, the increase reflects the increasing importance of automotive transportation in the economy.

Nonstore Retailers.—The only other major group to show an increase in its proportion of total retail sales since 1948 is the "nonstore retailer" group which consists of mail order houses, direct selling establishments, and merchandise vending machine operators and which in the 1954 Census for the first time was shown separately from other retail kinds of business. Although part of the change from 1948 shown for this group reflects differences between the two Censuses in accounting for this type of establishment, nonetheless there has been a significant growth, particularly in the case of sales through vending machines in the nonstore type of operation. The only type of establishment which did not share in the above-average increase registered by the group was "mail order houses," which showed a moderate increase in sales; however, the increase was considerably less than that for all retail trade.

Table D illustrates the importance of selected kinds of business in 1954 and 1948.

[1]Sales in this group are significantly affected by the handling of leased departments (See Introduction). 1948 sales have been adjusted for changes in scope and classification, but not for the difference in handling of leased departments.

GEOGRAPHIC DISTRIBUTION OF RETAIL SALES

State Distribution.—Again in 1954, as in 1948 and every previous Census, New York State showed the largest volume of retail sales. It was followed by California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, Michigan, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Missouri. All States among the first ten, except Illinois and Pennsylvania which exchanged ranks, retained their 1948 position. Table E lists the States by their 1954 sales volume rank and indicates their ranks in the 1948, 1939, and 1929 Censuses. In this table the 1948 data have been adjusted to the 1954 scope before computing rank. However, the data for previous years have not been so adjusted.

There were considerable differences among the individual States in the percentage increase of sales since 1948. The State of Florida with an increase of 72.5 percent showed the largest percentage increase of any State, followed by Nevada and New Mexico. The States with smallest percentage of increase were North Dakota, West Virginia, South Dakota, and the District of Columbia, each of which showed an increase of less than 10 percent since 1948. A total of 20 States exceeded the percentage change of the United States as a whole while 28 and the District of Columbia showed smaller percentage increases than the average for the United States as a whole.

Table F presents these changes for each State, the District of Columbia, and for the nation as a whole.

of retail sales volume, are the same in 1954 as they were in 1948. Within each of these areas, there has been a greater increase in sales for the area as a whole than for the central cities of the area; that is, the trend toward shopping in the suburbs has been an important factor in the six-year period since the 1948 Census. This decentralization is sharpest among the convenience goods outlets such as grocery stores, drug stores, and gasoline service stations, but is also noticeable in the categories handling various classes of durable goods and apparel. Table G lists the 25 largest standard metropolitan areas in the order of their 1954 sales volume and indicates the changes in the areas as a whole and in their central cities since 1948. Reference also should be made to the Central Business District table (Table K) for further information on shifts in trade within larger metropolitan areas.

County Distribution.—In 1954 the 50 leading counties based on retail sales, accounted for 37.9 percent of the U. S. total, as compared with 38.0 percent for the 50 leaders in 1948. In 1954, Los Angeles County, California, had the largest sales volume of any county in the United States having displaced Cook County, Illinois, which held the number-one position in 1948. The other counties in the first 10 all retained the same position they held in 1948. Other notable changes among the nation's leading counties were in Nassau County, New York, which jumped from 28th to 11th, and Middlesex County, Massachusetts, and Dallas County, Texas, which became 17th and 18th, respectively, from 22nd and 23rd in 1948. Bexar County, Texas, Oakland County, Michigan, and Union County, New Jersey, were added to the list of the 50 largest in 1954 replacing Ramsey County, Minnesota, Summit County, Ohio, and Lucas County, Ohio, which had been in the group in 1948. Table H lists the 50 counties with the largest retail sales volume according to their 1954 rank.

City-Size Distribution.—The urban places, for which data are presented separately in Volume II, consistently account for a larger proportion of retail sales than would be expected on the basis of the number of inhabitants within their boundaries. The cities having from 25,000 to 49,999 inhabitants led in this respect with sales 52 percent above expectation based on population. In rural areas and places with a population of less than 2,500 inhabitants (remainder of the United States) sales fell 53 percent below the expectation based on population. Of all the city-size groups, the one containing urban places having 500,000 or more inhabitants came closest to the expectation based on population, with sales only 19 percent above expectation. Table I shows the population and sales in the various city-size groups, the percent of total population and sales accounted for by each class, and the ratio of actual sales to expected sales in each class. As an additional aid in analyzing retail trade data, Table J provides data on the standard metropolitan areas by city-size, thus making possible for the first time in a Census of Business an evaluation of the importance of communities of various sizes within the standard metropolitan areas.

Central Business Districts.--In the 1954 Census of Business, for the first time, there were included a series of bulletins providing data on retail trade within the central business district of major cities. A total of 94 cities were included in this program, including 93 in continental United States and the city of Honolulu in the Territory of Hawaii. For the city of New York an analysis was published for the Central Business District of Brooklyn borough, in addition to one for the Central Business District of Manhattan borough, thus bringing to 95 the number of districts analyzed and the number of separate bulletins issued. Chart 1 shows the Standard Metropolitan Areas in which one or more Central Business Districts have been analyzed.

In general, the data indicate that the central business districts are either decreasing in sales volume or are increasing at a slower rate than the area of which they form a part. Twenty-six of the central business districts reported actual decrease in dollar volume of sales since 1948. Table K illustrates some of the findings of these bulletins. These and other data are available, in Chapter 6, for a number of kinds of business making possible a more intensive examination of trends in consumer buying than has previously been possible from Census publications. Similar data for Motion Picture Theaters and Hotels are included in Volume V, 1954 Census of Business.

SALES SIZE (TABLES IN CHAPTER 2)

The tabulations analyzing data by sales size indicate that the 18,969 full-year establishments having sales of $1,000,000 or more included in the 1954 Census of Retail Trade reported sales of $44.7 billion, 26 percent of the total sales of all establishments. (See Table L.) At the other end of the scale, the 215,087 full-year establishments with sales of less than $10,000 accounted for less than 1 percent of the total. The "$1,000,000 and over" establishments are highly concentrated in a few kinds of business, with over 70 percent of the total number in only three detailed kinds of business. Grocery stores with 6,242 of these establishments led in this respect, accounting for 33 percent of the establishments in the size class, followed by passenger car dealers with 5,776 or 30 percent and department stores with 1,683 or 9 percent.

In the department store classification, 61 percent of the establishments were full-year establishments with sales of $1 million or more and these accounted for almost 93 percent of the sales of all department stores. Among mail order houses less than 5 percent are in this size class but they accounted for 90 percent of the sales of this kind of business. The only other detailed kind of business in which more than half of all sales is accounted for by establishments with sales of $1 million or more was passenger car dealers in which these establishments accounted for 14 percent of the number and 52 percent of the sales.

The large stores, while widely spread geographically, are found for the most part in the standard metropolitan areas. The distribution of these stores by State is shown in Chart 2, and for the larger Standard Metropolitan Areas in Chart 3.

EMPLOYMENT SIZE (TABLES IN CHAPTER 3)

Of the establishments included in the 1954 Census, only 3,688 or 0.2 percent reported 100 or more paid employees in the November pay period for which data were collected in the Census.

As in the past, department stores led all other kinds of business in the number of stores which had 100 or more employees; next came variety stores followed by passenger car dealers (franchised). These same kinds of business were also the leaders in the 1948 Census. The only kinds of business in which the number of establishments with 100 or more employees showed any significant increase were grocery stores and passenger car dealers (franchised). Table M presents the number of establishments having 100 or more employees by kind of business and their relative importance.

SINGLE UNITS AND MULTIUNITS (TABLES IN CHAPTER 4)

In 1954, retail establishments of multiunit organizations accounted for 30.1 percent or $51,187,317,000 of the sales of all retail establishments. The average size of establishments of these organizations was $306,461, considerably greater than the average of $76,405 for all other establishments. In the 1954 Census an important definitional change was adopted, the effect of which was to classify stores which were part of the same ownership group as multiunits even though they might have been operated under different names and have had a high degree of autonomy with respect to operating and merchandising policies within the stores. This change significantly affected only the department store classification. 1948 data for department stores are shown on the basis of the 1948 and 1954 definitions in Table N.

Not all kinds of business lend themselves equally well to organization and operation as multiunits. The reasons for this are sometimes found in local or State laws, sometimes in the operating problems inherent to a trade, and at still other times in the operating policies of companies in allied fields of endeavor. An example of local or State laws inhibiting the control of multiunits can be found in the regulations surrounding the sale of alcoholic beverages. Of the sales of $4.4 billion made by all drinking places only $128 million or 3 percent were made in establishments operated by multiunits. The low percentage among eating places, (16.6 percent) would appear to be a function of the operating problems, although the gradual increases which are occurring would seem to indicate that these are being overcome. Gasoline service stations are the prime example of a kind of business in which company policy is responsible for the relative unimportance of multiunit ownership. In this trade 34 percent of the sales were made by establishments owned by multiunit organizations in 1929. Since that time many of the major gasoline companies have eliminated or substantially reduced their direct retail operations. In 1954 only 13 percent of the sales of gasoline service stations were made by establishments of multiunit organizations. However, the large companies continue to provide their dealers with assistance in conducting their businesses including advertising materials, credit card service, etc. As a result of these services and the prominence given to product trade marks, the degree of decentralization of ownership which has taken place is not always obvious. Table O shows the sales of establishments of two size classes of multiunit organizations for major groups and for the kinds of business in which such organizations are most important.

LEGAL FORM OF ORGANIZATION (TABLES IN CHAPTER 5)

Of the total of 1,721,650 retail establishments included in the 1954 Census of Business, 1,203,831 or 70 percent were owned by individual proprietors. The next greatest number of establishments were owned by partnerships, followed by corporations. However, if one measures the relative importance of these legal forms by sales volume, corporations are first with $82,229,197,000 or 48 percent of all retail sales even though they accounted for only 13 percent of the number of establishments. They are followed by individual proprietors with $56,942,664,000 or 34 percent and partnerships with $27,965,250,000 or 16 percent. The relative importance of the corporations is most pronounced among the larger establishments, accounting for 89 percent of the sales of all establishments with annual sales of $1,000,000 or more. Tables P and Q illustrate the importance of the various legal forms of ownership in total and for the various sales-size classes.
